

In-House Training for Organisations

COST EFFECTIVE, TIME SAVING SOLUTIONS

Southpac Aerospace can provide flexible and customised in-house training to suit each client's needs.

Our courses are delivered in-house for major airlines, regulators and aviation organisations throughout the world. We have dozens of aviation courses covering regulations and compliance, quality and safety management and leadership available to companies who are seeking to improve the knowledge, skills and competence of their staff.

Our bespoke programs address specific needs and challenges of our clients. These projects have ranged from a single short course to comprehensive training programs across an organisation. Southpac Aerospace has developed targeted, in-house corporate programs for everyone from executive and senior management teams through to frontline personnel.

Trusted by aviation organisations across the Asia Pacific

HOW IT WORKS

1 | Select a Course

Based on your organisation's training needs, select from any of our facilitated courses.

2 | Request a Quote

Our team will provide a quote for training participants at your company – in-person at your facility, or virtually.

3 | Book Training

Confirm the dates with our team and discuss your specific training requirements.

4 | Enrol Participants

Select personnel to attend the course on the specified dates and advise our team.

TO EDUCATE, TO LEAD, TO INSPIRE

SOUTHPAC.BIZ

In-House Training for Organisations

OPTIONS TO SUIT YOUR NEEDS

We understand that finding the time and budget to train staff can be challenging. That's why we offer tailored in-house training packages designed to make qualifying your staff as straightforward as possible.

Whichever option you choose, your organisation will gain knowledge aligned to your specific needs while building towards industry-recognised qualifications.

1

Choose from our existing courses

Any of our current Southpac courses can be delivered in your classroom or through our interactive Virtual platform, with each participant logging in on their own computer.

2

Build your own customised training

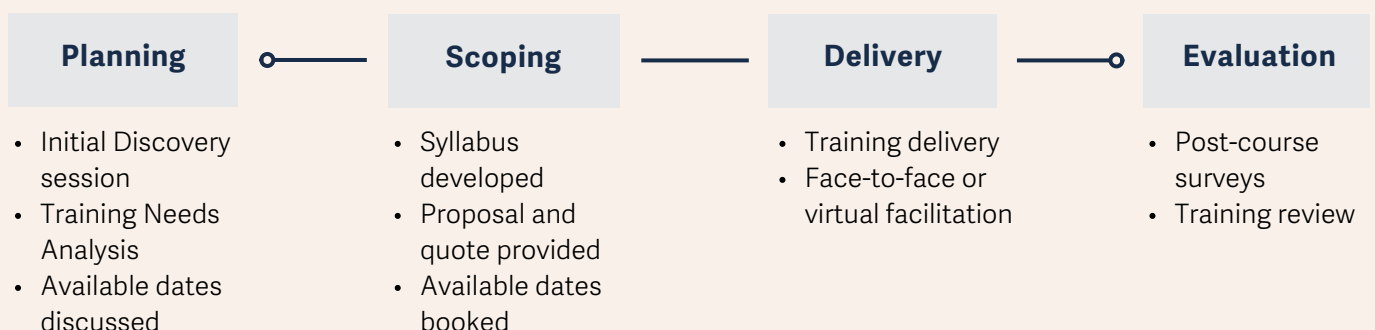

Design and deliver training to suit your organisation's needs, including course content, structure, and delivery over consecutive days or a series of dates.

OUR PROGRAMS

We design and deliver complete training programs using facilitated courses, online modules, or blended approaches. Programs can include qualifications, skill sets, and accredited or unaccredited certificates, as required.

Southpac also has the capability to manage, coordinate, and deliver training on behalf of your organisation, both internally and externally.

OUR PROCESS

In-House Training for Organisations

BENEFITS OF IN-HOUSE TRAINING

Stay in control

Select a venue that suits your needs, either within your organisation or externally.

Improve staff morale

Build awareness, empathy and teamwork across internal departments.

Make it your own

Customise courses to suit your requirements.

Reduce costs

Save on staff travel and training costs.

Transfer skills

Bring your team on the journey using contextualised scenarios.

Protect proprietary information

Keep sensitive processes and information secure by training internally.

Get national recognition

Many of our courses are nationally recognised and include units of competency.

TESTIMONIAL

I would like to extend my thanks and gratitude to the Southpac team for facilitating this training. We have had nothing but positive, ongoing feedback from the team who attended and we can see that translating into our day to day activities.

I appreciate a lot of effort goes on in the background at home base as well. So, thank you to the entire team! We will certainly continue to endorse Southpac to others in the future.

Joshua Haslemore, Air New Zealand

In-House Safety Investigators Course

Frequently Asked Questions

What are the advantages of in-house training?

- Protect proprietary information
- Tailor our established courses to suit your specific requirements
- Develop a program that is delivered at times that suit you
- Develop a long-standing relationship with your trainer
- Include case study content and scenarios relevant to your operations
- Reduce travel and accommodation expenses of sending staff away.

We want to run an in-house course. What's required?

For training in-person at your facility, a climate-controlled room will be required that is large enough to accommodate all participants, with space for breakout groups, internet access, catering and refreshment areas, tables and comfortable chairs, a large TV or screen, flip charts, whiteboards, and either car parking or easy access to public transport. For Virtual facilitated training, all participants will need access to their own computer with stable internet connection, webcam and microphone, and a quiet space to login from work or home.

How is the in-house training priced?

We price courses based on the costs for the trainer, travel, expenses, administration and materials required to deliver the program. The training investment is based on a comprehensive package, not individual attendee costs. Typically, our in-house training is far more cost-effective for groups compared to the cost of individual enrolment on our public courses.

Is there a minimum and maximum number of students allowed on an in-house course?

We provide a quote for up to 12 participants but can accommodate higher numbers if required.

What does a typical day look like?

Most face-to-face courses run each day from 8:30am to 4:30pm, with lunch at 12:00pm and breaks as required in the morning and afternoon. Virtual delivery can be designed to a similar schedule.

We don't have enough participants. Can we have other people on the course?

Yes. Hosting an in-house course allows flexibility for staff from other divisions and/or participants from other companies to join.

CONTACT US FOR A QUOTE

ADMIN@SOUTHPAC.BIZ

+61 7 5533 9988

